1. [REDACTED] and I took Bob Macy, Bureau of the Budget, out to the building site. I also had lunch with Bob. I did not glean very much information from him as to what might be raised in our Budget Hearings on Thursday except that they will undoubtedly give us a rough time on our personnel strength.

2. Jim Garrison reported that he was having some difficulty with the Office of the Comptroller in obtaining funds for the operation of [REDACTED] I must follow up on this with [REDACTED].

3. [REDACTED] asked me about the possibility of getting a new car for the Deputy Director (Plans). I told him that we could provide a new or relatively new car but that it would have to be a Ford or Chevrolet rather than a bigger car which the Deputy Director (Plans) apparently had requested.

4. Jim Garrison called to my attention [REDACTED] which, he cited, gives the Technical Services Staff certain procurement, storage and supply responsibilities he thinks they should not have. I must look into this.

5. Jim Garrison discussed with me the possibility of [REDACTED] extending at [REDACTED] for one year. I told him that I had no objection to this provided that [REDACTED] was agreeable, but that I did not think we should force him to extend. Jim agreed.

6. Jim Garrison reported that [REDACTED] have both resigned, effective 31 December 1958, rather than take the overseas assignments for which they were scheduled. I told him that we might want to review the [REDACTED] case later, inasmuch as we had so much invested in him, and perhaps offer him an opportunity to stay on in the Agency at a lower rate grade.
